NAGOVOR ŽUPANA

WORDS FROM THE MAYOR

Najboljši okusi iz tistih časov so bili preprosti: kuhan korenje, pesa, repa in krompir, ki smo jih pripravljali v prašičevem kotlu.

Gastronombska ponudba je danes veliko bolj moderna, s številnimi okusnimi kombinacijami, ki jih sam včasih težko razumem, a so kljub temu zelo okusne.

Ko sem odraščal sredi 50. let prejšnjega stoletja, hrane ni bilo v izobilju, zato je bilo pripravljanje rednih dnevnih obrokov za mamo pravi izziv. V trgovinah se je kupovalo le osnovne dobrine, kot sta sladkor in sol – kar se danes zdi težko razumljivo.

Najboljši okusi iz tistih časov so bili preprosti: kuhan korenje, pesa, repa in krompir, ki smo jih pripravljali v prašičjem kotlu. Poleg tega pa metina kaša, žganci z mlekom in sveže pečen kruh iz krušne peči. Ti obroki so bili še posebej pogosti poleti, saj nismo imeli hladilnikov ali zamrzovalnikov, da bi shranjevali meso ali mesne izdelke.

Ob praznikih, predvsem za veliko noč, pa so se gospodinje – vključno z mojo mamo – še posebej potrudile. Takrat smo uživali kuhan suho meso, prato, pirhe in orehovo potico. Podobno je bilo tudi ob drugih pomembnih praznikih. Pozimi, ko je oče, vaški mesar, pripravljal mesne in kašnate klobase, smo vedno uživali v njihovem neprimerljivo boljšem okusu v primerjavi z današnjimi mesninami.

Čeprav je bilo takrat hrane manj, so moji spomini na tisti čas prijetni. Še posebej cenim preprosto življenje in dejstvo, da smo vso hrano pridelali sami na kmetiji. Redki so tisti, ki so takrat živelii v izobilju, a kljub temu pogrešam tiste dni, ko je bila hrana res domača, pristna in predvsem slastna.

Today's culinary scene is much more modern, with a variety of flavour combinations that I sometimes find hard to understand – yet they're undeniably delicious.

When I was growing up in the mid-1950s, food was far from plentiful and preparing daily meals was a real challenge for my mother. Basic staples like sugar and salt were often all you could find in shops, a reality difficult to imagine today.

Back then, the most satisfying flavours were simple: boiled carrots, beetroot, turnips, and potatoes cooked in a pig's boiler, alongside mint porridge, cracklings with milk and freshly baked bread. These meals were especially common in summer since we had no fridges for storing meat.

On special occasions, like Easter, the housewives, including my mother, really did their best. We'd enjoy treats like boiled dried meat, prata (bread stuffing), pirhi (decorated eggs) and walnut potica. The same was true for other important holidays.

Winter was special too. My father, the village butcher, made meat and sausage rolls that were incomparably tastier than today's store-bought options.

Though food was scarcer, my memories of that time are warm. I especially value the simplicity of life back then and the fact that everything we ate was home-grown. While few people lived in abundance, I still miss those days when food was truly homemade, authentic and deeply satisfying.

Back then, the most satisfying flavours were simple: boiled carrots, beetroot, turnips, and potatoes cooked in a pig's boiler.

SPREMNA BESEDA DR. JANEZA BOGATAJA OBČINA SE PO JEDEH POZNA

V sodobnih svetovnih gastronomskih in kulinaričnih prizadevanjih ter usmerjanjih se vedno bolj izpostavljajo prehranska kulturna dediščina, lokalna in regionalna prehrana, jedi, jedilni obroki in navade pri jedi, ob upoštevanju štirih letnih časov, trajnostna (vzdržna) prehranska prizadevanja, mreže lokalnih ter regionalnih pridelovalcev in dobaviteljev. Vsa navedena področja so v Sloveniji različno razvita, za kar je več vzrokov. To je seveda presenetljivo ob dejstvu, da bi lahko bili poznani tudi na področju gastronomije in kulinarike po velikem in različnem bogastvu.

Dr. Janez Bogataj je eden izmed najbolj izjemnih strokovnjakov za slovensko etnologijo, s posebnim poudarkom na kulinarični dediščini in sodobnih gastronomskih trendih.

jo biti razne globalne jedi, ampak samo tiste, ki so doma na določenem regionalnem ali lokalnem območju.

Zlasti tuji novinarji me pogosto sprašujejo, kaj je značilno za gastronomijo Slovenije. Na vprašanje kratko odgovarjam: velika različnost! Ta izhaja iz izjemne lege Slovenije in vplivov na stičišču Alp, Sredozemlja, Panonske nižine in od 20. stoletja tudi sosednjega Balkana. Skozi stoletja zgodovinskega razvoja se je na tem delu sveta in Evrope ustvarila velika paleta prehranske različnosti. Tako imamo npr. kar 132 lokalnih in regionalnih imen za krompir, ki ima svojo kakovostno veljavno tudi na območju občine Cerkle na Gorenjskem. A najbolj značilna poljščina tega dela Slovenije je bilo že stoletja proso. To je v marsičem narekovalo vsakdanjo in praznično cerkljansko prehransko kulturo. Prosena kaša s suhimi slivami, štruklji s prosenim nadevom, prosena juha, prosena pogača, krapi in še bi lahko naštevali, je samo nekaj primerov cerkljanske prehranske dediščine. Prav razumevanje te dediščine je lahko temeljno izhodišče za sodobno razpoznavnost, predvsem pa drugačnost in s tem različnost z drugimi regijami, ki imajo druge značilne jedi.

Naš odnos do prehranske dediščine bo potrebno čim prej začeti spremenjati, saj iz tega ne bomo delali gastronomskega "muzeja" ampak nam je to bogastvo in predvsem znanje, odlično izhodišče za našo sodobno kulinarično in gastronomsko razpoznavnost. Agresija globalizma je tudi na gastronomskem in kulinaričnem področju zelo velika. Pogosto se niti ne zavedamo, da prav ta globalizem, z vsemi picerijami, burgerji, kebabji in drugimi vsebinami človeku neprijazne množične ter hitre prehrane, uničuje žlahtnosti in različnosti, ki nam jih sporočajo ohranjena pričevanja o lokalnih in regionalnih prehranskih posebnostih. Bodimo sicer odprtji do številnih svetovnih različnosti, a pri tem ne pozabimo na vse tisto, kar se nam je ohranilo pred domačimi pragovi. Kajti le ta živila, jedi, jedilni obroki in navade pri jedi nam omogočajo ter utrjujejo našo istovetnost na prehranskem področju, tudi v Občini Cerkle na Gorenjskem.

FOREWORD BY DR JANEZ BOGATAJ

A COMMUNITY'S ESSENCE IS REVEALED THROUGH ITS FOOD

Modern global trends in gastronomy increasingly highlight food as cultural heritage, emphasizing local and regional cuisine, seasonal dishes, sustainable practices and networks of local producers and providers. In Slovenia, each of these aspects has developed in its own unique way and while our culinary wealth may come as a surprise to some, it is one of our greatest strengths.

Since 2006, Slovenia has had a dedicated gastronomic strategy, defining 24 distinct gastronomic regions with over 430 unique foods, dishes and drinks. This includes the establishment of the culinary pyramid, designed to shape and define Slovenia's culinary identity. Gradually, cities and municipalities have identified their own signature foods, dishes and drinks, focusing not on global trends but on flavours native to their specific regions.

Foreign journalists often ask what characterizes Slovenian gastronomy and my answer is always: "Remarkable variety!" This diversity stems from Slovenia's unique location at the crossroads of the Alps, the Mediterranean, the Pannonian Plain and, since the 20th century, the Balkans. Historical influences and centuries of cultural blending have given rise to a wonderfully diverse culinary landscape. Take potatoes, for instance, which are especially renowned in Cerknica; in Slovenia, there are 132 local and regional names. But if anything embodies the culinary heritage of Cerknica, it is millet, a crop that has shaped daily and festive food traditions for generations. Millet porridge with prunes, millet štruklji, millet soup, millet pogača (flat cake) and even kraji (filled dumplings) are just a few examples of the food heritage woven into the culture of Cerknica. Embracing this food heritage is key to fostering a modern culinary identity – one that is distinctive and deeply meaningful.

We must shift our perspective to see this legacy not as a "gastronomic museum", but as a vibrant source of inspiration for our modern culinary visibility. In an age of culinary globalism, we are at risk of losing this richness to the proliferation of fast-food culture: pizzerias, burgers, kebabs and other mass-produced fare. While it is essential to welcome the world's flavours, we must also cherish and protect the tastes that have been preserved at home. These foods, recipes and traditions are vital in affirming our identity, including here in the Municipality of Cerknica.

Dr. Janez Bogataj is one of the leading experts on Slovenian ethnology, with a special focus on the nation's culinary heritage and contemporary gastronomic trends.

OKUS TRADICIJE_TASTE OF TRADITION

PRATA

Prata je tradicionalna slovenska jed, ki naj bi izvirala z Gorenjske, danes pa jo ob praznikih pripravljajo po vsej Sloveniji. Izjemno priljubljena je tudi v Cerkljah na Gorenjskem. Njene sestavine so preproste, priprava pa je prav tako enostavna.

Sestavine za 10 oseb:

0,5 kg prekajene vratovine (lahko le prekajena glava - bolj mastna)

0,8 kg 2 dni starega belega kruha

6 jajc

3 žlice sesekljanega peteršilja

2 žlici svinjske masti

2 čebuli, česen, poper, mleti lovorjev list, mleti muškat, majaron

Prekajeno meso operemo, damo v lonec, prelijemo z vodo. Kuhamo dobre pol ure (meso je na pol kuhan), nato ga pustimo v vodi, da se ohladi.

Medtem narežemo kruh na približno 1 cm velike kocke, ga prepojimo z juho, v kateri se je kuhalo meso. Sesekljamo čebulo in česen, zlato prepražimo na maščobi. V skledo ubijemo jajca, jih začinimo in dobro razzvrkljamo.

Ohlajeno meso prav tako razrežemo na 1 cm velike kocke (svinjsko glavo zmeljemo) in nato vse sestavine rahlo premešamo.

Prato natlačimo v črevo in pri tem pazimo, da se lepo poveže. Zgoraj pustimo vsaj 2 cm praznega čreva, ker se prata napihlne in lahko poči. Pomembno je, da je na začetku in na koncu dobro zavezana. Pečemo jo na 150 stopinjah 40–50 minut. Ko se ohladi, narežemo na rezine.

Pa dober tek vam želimo.

Prata is a traditional Slovenian dish, similar to stuffed meatloaf, made with smoked meat, bread, eggs and spices stuffed into a casing. Baked and sliced into rounds, it is a festive favourite rooted in Slovenian culinary traditions, especially in Cerknica na Gorenjskem, highlighting the art of turning simple ingredients into a flavourful delight.

Ingredients for 10 people:
0.5 kg smoked neck meat (or fatty head meat)
0.8 kg 2-day-old white bread
6 eggs
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons lard
2 onions, garlic, ground pepper, ground bay leaves, ground nutmeg and ground marjoram

Instructions:

Wash the smoked meat thoroughly, place it in a pot, and cover with water until fully submerged. Bring to a boil and cook for about 30 minutes, until the meat is half-cooked. Let it cool in the broth.

In the meantime, cut the bread into 1 cm cubes. Soak the bread in the broth from the meat until softened but not mushy. Chop the onions and garlic finely. Heat the lard in a pan and sauté the onions and garlic until golden and fragrant.

In a large bowl, beat the eggs, season generously with pepper, nutmeg, bay leaves and marjoram and whisk until well combined. Dice the cooled meat into 1 cm cubes (or mince, if you're using the head). In a large mixing bowl, gently combine the soaked bread, diced meat, sautéed onions and garlic, parsley, and the seasoned eggs. Mix well but carefully to maintain texture.

Fill the prepared casing with the mixture, ensuring a firm but not overly tight fit. Leave about 2 cm of empty space at the top to allow for expansion during baking. Seal the ends securely.

Place the stuffed casing in a preheated oven at 150°C (300°F). Bake for 40–50 minutes, or until the casing is golden and slightly crisp. Allow the prata to cool completely before slicing into even rounds.

Enjoy your homemade delicacy! Dober tek!
